

Membership Benefits Worth $$$

Regardless of whether you are able to attend the great BAC rallies, there is another very valuable (as in helpful and money saving) benefit to BAC Club membership. What do you do when there is a problem with your coach or you need to find quality parts or service at a reasonable cost? Answer: use the BAC Web Site and Forum. This is a fantastic site where members post their problems and get helpful suggestions from many knowledgeable and experienced Beaver coach owners. Past posts include problems with the SMC levelers, Aladdin system, powered sun visors, generator, rain collecting in the slide toppers and even a member who got locked inside their coach and another who could not start the engine. All received prompt replies with helpful suggestions..

The "Sources Board" on the Forum helps identify reliable service centers and locate hard-to-find parts such as specific paint colors, latches, light bulbs and more. Everyone is welcome to explore the Forum. Go to the BAC web site at beaveramb.org and click on "Forum." Scroll down the page and click on "Technical Board." There is a search feature if you would like to find a specific item.

How to Join BAC

For more information about the club, go to beaveramb.org. A calendar of events (on the Forum), pictures of rallies and helpful links (eg. to RV park reviews and fuel prices) are available. To join BAC, click on "Member Services." There is a downloadable application or you can sign up online and pay by credit card. You must also be a member of FMCA to join BAC, and an application to join FMCA is there as well. The cost for your first year of BAC membership is $40 (includes name badges) and subsequent years (October through September) are $30. We think you will find it well worth the money.

Beaver Ambassador Club

BAC is an RV club for owners of Beaver motor coaches. This very friendly international group:

- Plans rallies throughout the United States and Canada
- Maintains the BAC Forum: a site for technical assistance and locating parts and service.
- Publishes Beaver Tales (our quarterly newsletter) to keep members updated on the latest club and coach news
